

OSMO Resin Firm Glue Spray RRP £7.99

Both are definitely higher end products, and as they are available in Salons the pricing is to be expected. It's a shame as I think they would do well in Boots and other big stores. The packaging is sleek and the applicators easy to use.

I found myself when using the glue for fingerwaving and precision styling it was great, easily brushed out, and it didn't leave any flaky residue.

The spray was great for holding up do's, however I wouldn't recommend using it on curls or waves. The fragrance is great, not too heavy and quite neutral not lending itself to gender. I love OSMO products, the Power Dust is a great product for volumising, and the hairsprays have great holding power.

Have you tried any of the OSMO ranges? How much are you willing to pay for salon based products?
